The Greek Alphabet

Letters, pronunciation systems, and diphthongs

Koine Greek uses 24 letters. Two main pronunciation systems exist: Erasmian (standard in most seminaries, each vowel has a distinct sound) and Modern/Restored Koine (closer to how native speakers likely pronounced it, with several vowels converging toward an 'ee' sound). Both are shown below.

Letter	Name	Erasmian	Modern	Example
Α α	Alpha	a (father)	a (father)	ἀγάπη
Β β	Beta	b	v	βιβλίον
Γ γ	Gamma	g (go)	gh / y	γῆ
Δ δ	Delta	d	th (the)	δόξα
Ε ε	Epsilon	e (met)	e (met)	ἐν
Ζ ζ	Zeta	dz / z	z	ζωή
Η η	Eta	ay (hay)	ee (feet)	ἡμέρα
Θ θ	Theta	th (thin)	th (thin)	θεός
Ι ι	Iota	i (machine)	ee (feet)	ἵνα
Κ κ	Kappa	k	k	καί
Λ λ	Lambda	l	l	λόγος
Μ μ	Mu	m	m	μαθητής
Ν ν	Nu	n	n	νόμος
Ξ ξ	Xi	x (ax)	x (ax)	ξένος
Ο ο	Omicron	o (not)	o (not)	ὅτι

Letter	Name	Erasmian	Modern	Example
Π π	Pi	p	p	πίστις
Ρ ρ	Rho	r (trilled)	r	ῥῆμα
Σ σ/ς	Sigma	s	s	σάρξ
Τ τ	Tau	t	t	τέκνον
Υ υ	Upsilon	u (French tu)	ee (feet)	υἱός
Φ φ	Phi	ph (phone)	f	φῶς
Χ χ	Chi	ch (Bach)	ch / h	χάρις
Ψ ψ	Psi	ps (lips)	ps	ψυχή
Ω ω	Omega	o (tone)	o (tone)	ὥρα

Diphthongs

When two vowels combine, they form a diphthong with a blended sound. These are essential to recognize for accurate reading and parsing.

Letters	Erasmian	Modern	Example
αι	ai (aisle)	e (met)	παιδίον
ει	ei (eight)	ee (feet)	εἰρήνη
οι	oi (oil)	ee (feet)	οἶκος
αυ	ow (cow)	av / af	αὐτός
ευ	eu (feud)	ev / ef	εὐαγγέλιον
ου	oo (food)	oo (food)	οὐρανός
υι	wee	ee	υἱός

Breathing Marks & Accents

Every word beginning with a vowel carries a breathing mark: a smooth breathing (ἀ) is silent, while a rough breathing (ἁ) adds an 'h' sound. Greek has three accent marks — acute (ά), circumflex (ᾶ), and grave (ὰ) — which originally indicated pitch but in Koine primarily mark stress. An iota subscript (ᾳ) beneath α, η, or ω is written but not pronounced.

Mark	Function	Example	Notes
᾽ (smooth)	Silent	ἐν = en	On initial vowels
῾ (rough)	Adds h-	ἁμαρτία = hamartia	On initial vowels, always on ρ
´ (acute)	Stress	θεός	Last 3 syllables
˜ (circumflex)	Stress	τοῦ	Last 2 syllables, long vowels
` (grave)	Stress	θεὸς λέγει	Replaces acute before next word

Chapter 2

Noun Declensions

First, second, and third declension paradigms with articles and case functions

Greek nouns change their endings to indicate grammatical function — this is called declension. Unlike English, which relies on word order, Greek uses case endings so that word order is flexible. Always look for the nominative noun (subject) and the verb first.

The Five Cases

Case	Function	Example	Translation
Nominative	Subject	ὁ θεός ἀγαπᾷ	God loves
Vocative	Direct address	κύριε, βοήθει	Lord, help!
Genitive	Possession / source	ὁ λόγος τοῦ θεοῦ	the word of God
Dative	Indirect object / means	τῷ θεῷ δόξα	glory to God
Accusative	Direct object	ἀγαπᾷ τὸν κόσμον	He loves the world

The Definite Article

Greek has a definite article (equivalent to English 'the') but no indefinite article. The article must agree in case, number, and gender with the noun it modifies. Memorizing the article forms is foundational — they reappear in relative pronouns and participles.

Case	Masc. Sg.	Fem. Sg.	Neut. Sg.	Masc. Pl.	Fem. Pl.	Neut. Pl.
Nom.	ὁ	ἡ	τό	οἱ	αἱ	τά
Gen.	τοῦ	τῆς	τοῦ	τῶν	τῶν	τῶν
Dat.	τῷ	τῇ	τῷ	τοῖς	ταῖς	τοῖς
Acc.	τόν	τήν	τό	τούς	τάς	τά

First Declension (Feminine)

First declension nouns are predominantly feminine. Stems ending in -η maintain eta throughout; stems ending in -α after ε, ι, or ρ keep alpha.

Case	- type ()	- type ()
Nom. Sg.	φωνή	ἡμέρα
Gen. Sg.	φωνῆς	ἡμέρας
Dat. Sg.	φωνῇ	ἡμέρᾳ
Acc. Sg.	φωνήν	ἡμέραν
Nom. Pl.	φωναί	ἡμέραι
Gen. Pl.	φωνῶν	ἡμερῶν
Dat. Pl.	φωναῖς	ἡμέραις
Acc. Pl.	φωνάς	ἡμέρας

Second Declension (Masculine / Neuter)

Second declension nouns are mostly masculine (-ος) or neuter (-ον). The neuter rule: neuter nominative and accusative forms are always identical.

Case	Masc. ()	Neut. ()
Nom. Sg.	λόγος	τέκνον
Gen. Sg.	λόγου	τέκνου
Dat. Sg.	λόγῳ	τέκνῳ
Acc. Sg.	λόγον	τέκνον
Nom. Pl.	λόγοι	τέκνα
Gen. Pl.	λόγων	τέκνων
Dat. Pl.	λόγοις	τέκνοις
Acc. Pl.	λόγους	τέκνα

Third Declension

Third declension nouns follow a distinct pattern and can be any gender. The key to identification is the genitive singular ending (-ος), since nominative forms vary widely. When a stem's final consonant meets σ, the square of stops applies:

Square of Stops

Type	Letters	+ becomes
Labial (lips)	π β φ	ψ
Dental (teeth)	τ δ θ	σ
Palatal (palate)	κ γ χ	ξ

Case	Masc./Fem. ()	Neuter ()
Nom. Sg.	σάρξ	ὄνομα
Gen. Sg.	σαρκός	ὀνόματος
Dat. Sg.	σαρκί	ὀνόματι
Acc. Sg.	σάρκα	ὄνομα
Nom. Pl.	σάρκες	ὀνόματα
Gen. Pl.	σαρκῶν	ὀνομάτων
Dat. Pl.	σαρξί(ν)	ὀνόμασι(ν)
Acc. Pl.	σάρκας	ὀνόματα

MEMORY AID

The dative singular always has an iota subscript (two strokes on a "date") — then the plural takes the iota out into the word itself. Genitive's -ου sounds like "of you." Masculine nominative singular uses sigma — think of a sigma male as the boss (subject) of the sentence. 1st declension is feminine — lady's first.

Key Vocabulary

ἀγάπη	agapē	love (f.)	1st
φωνή	phōnē	voice, sound (f.)	1st
γλῶσσα	glōssa	tongue, language (f.)	1st
λόγος	logos	word, reason (m.)	2nd
δοῦλος	doulos	servant, slave (m.)	2nd

ὄνομα	onoma	name (n.)	3rd
πνεῦμα	pneuma	spirit, wind (n.)	3rd

Practice: Noun Declensions

1. Parse τοῦ λόγου — what case, number, gender, and meaning?
   → Genitive singular masculine — 'of the word'
2. What case is τοῖς δούλοις?
   → Dative plural masculine — 'to/for the servants'
3. Decline θεός in all five cases, singular.
   → Nom. θεός, Gen. θεοῦ, Dat. θεῷ, Acc. θεόν, Voc. θεέ
4. What happens when a 3rd declension stem ending in κ meets σ?
   → κ + σ = ξ (palatal + sigma rule from the square of stops)
5. Identify the declension: πνεύματος
   → 3rd declension, genitive singular neuter — from πνεῦμα (spirit)

Chapter 3

Adjectives

Attributive, predicate, and substantival positions

Greek adjectives must agree with their noun in case, number, and gender. They follow the same declension patterns as nouns. The key skill is recognizing where the article sits relative to the adjective and noun — this determines meaning.

The Four Rules of Adjective Position

Position	Rule	Example	Translation
1. Attributive	Adjective is WITH the article	ὁ ἀγαθὸς δοῦλος or ὁ δοῦλος ὁ ἀγαθός	the good servant
2. Predicate	Adjective is WITHOUT the article, noun HAS it	ἀγαθὸς ὁ δοῦλος or ὁ δοῦλος ἀγαθός	the servant is good
3. Substantival	Adjective has article, no noun present	ὁ ἀγαθός	the good one / the good man
4. Ambiguous	No article for either — context decides	ἀγαθὸς δοῦλος	a good servant / a servant is good

The attributive position places the adjective inside the article-noun group: ὁ ἀγαθὸς δοῦλος or ὁ δοῦλος ὁ ἀγαθός (the article is repeated). The predicate position places the adjective outside: ἀγαθὸς ὁ δοῦλος — here the adjective makes a statement about the noun.

NOTE

Word order in Greek is flexible. What matters is the position of the article — if the adjective is wedged between the article and noun (or after a repeated article), it's attributive. If the adjective stands outside any article-noun group, it's predicate.

Practice: Adjective Positions

1. Classify: ἡ καλὴ γῆ

   → Attributive — adj. (καλή) is between the article (ἡ) and noun (γῆ): 'the good soil'

2. Classify: καλὴ ἡ γῆ

   → Predicate — adj. is outside the article-noun group: 'the soil is good'

3. Classify: ὁ πιστός

   → Substantival — article + adjective with no noun: 'the faithful one'

4. Translate: ὁ δοῦλος ὁ κακός

   → Attributive (second position) — 'the bad servant'

5. Translate: κακὸς δοῦλος — what are the two possibilities?

   → Either 'a bad servant' (attributive) or 'a servant is bad' (predicate) — context decides

Chapter 4

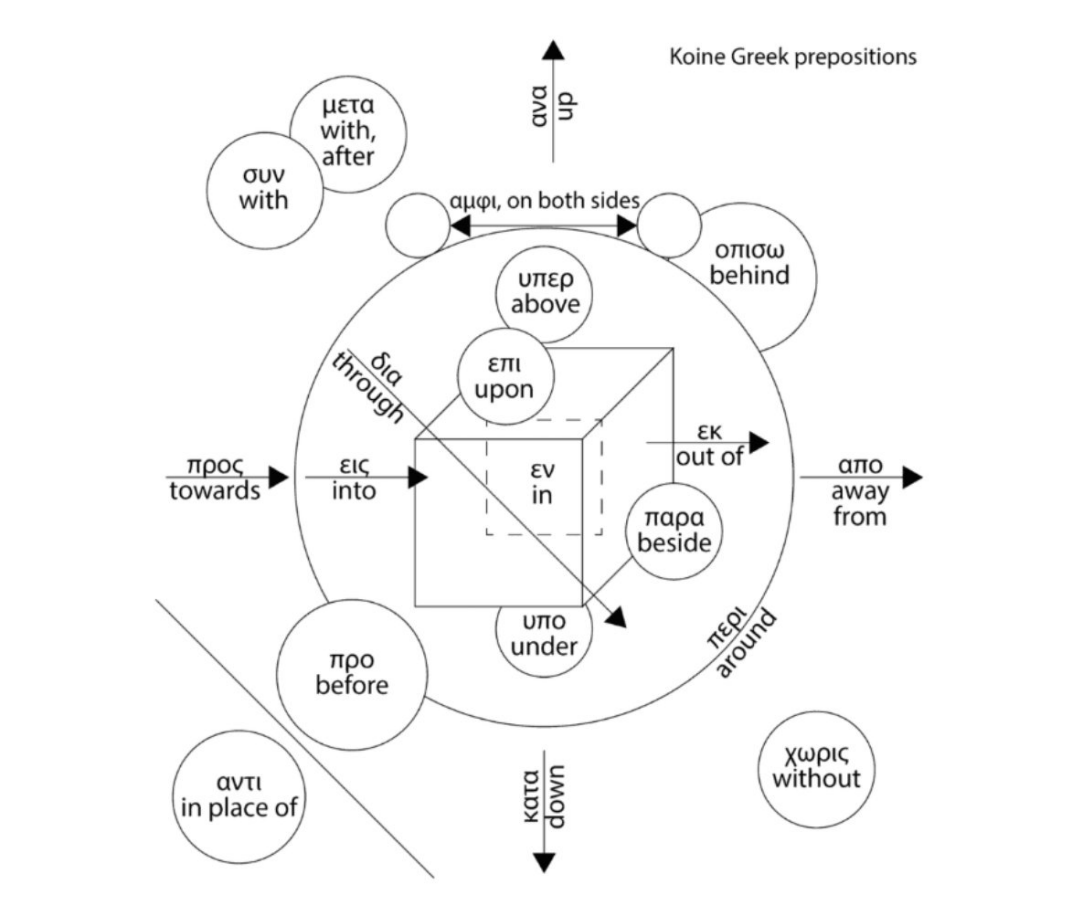

Prepositions

How prepositions govern different cases and shift meaning

Greek prepositions take their object in a specific case (genitive, dative, or accusative), and some can govern multiple cases with different meanings. Prepositions also appear as prefixes on compound verbs.

Spatial Relationships

This diagram shows how Greek prepositions express spatial relationships relative to an object. Many metaphorical uses derive from these core spatial meanings.

Common Prepositions by Case

Preposition	Meaning	Case(s)	Semantic Range
ἀπό	from, away from	Genitive only	separation, source
ἐκ / ἐξ	out of, from	Genitive only	origin, source
ἐν	in, among, by	Dative only	sphere, means
σύν	with, together	Dative only	association
εἰς	into, to, for	Accusative only	direction, purpose
πρός	to, toward, with	Accusative (usually)	direction, relationship
διά	through (Gen.) / because of (Acc.)	Gen. + Acc.	means / cause
κατά	down from (Gen.) / according to (Acc.)	Gen. + Acc.	opposition / standard
μετά	with (Gen.) / after (Acc.)	Gen. + Acc.	association / sequence
περί	about, concerning (Gen.) / around (Acc.)	Gen. + Acc.	reference / location
ὑπέρ	on behalf of (Gen.) / above (Acc.)	Gen. + Acc.	benefit / position
ὑπό	by (agent, Gen.) / under (Acc.)	Gen. + Acc.	agency / position
ἐπί	on, over, at	Gen. + Dat. + Acc.	position (varies)
παρά	from beside (G.) / beside (D.) / alongside (A.)	Gen. + Dat. + Acc.	proximity (varies)

ἐν takes dative only — think "in the dative." εἰς takes accusative only — motion "into" something (direction = accusative). ἐκ takes genitive only — coming "out of" (source = genitive).

Practice: Prepositions

1. What case does ἐν always take? Translate ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ.

   → Dative only — 'in the world'

2. How does διά change meaning by case? Give an example of each.

   → + Genitive = 'through' (διὰ τοῦ λόγου, through the word); + Accusative = 'because of' (διὰ τὴν ἀγάπην, because of love)

3. Parse the prepositional phrase: ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ

   → ἐκ + genitive — 'out of heaven' (source/origin)

4. Identify the preposition and case: πρὸς τὸν θεόν (John 1:1)

   → πρός + accusative — 'toward God' / 'with God' (relational proximity)

5. Is ἐκεῖνος ὁ ἄνθρωπος attributive or predicate?
   → Predicate — demonstratives always stand in predicate position: 'that man'

Chapter 6

The Indicative Verbal System

Primary and secondary endings, connecting vowels, and tense overview

Greek verbs in the indicative mood make factual assertions. The system divides into primary tenses (present, future, perfect — no augment) and secondary tenses (imperfect, aorist, pluperfect — ε-augment on past forms). Each tense has active and middle/passive voice endings.

Primary Active Endings (Present, Future)

Person	Ending	Example	Translation
1st Sg.	-ω	λύω	I loose
2nd Sg.	-εις	λύεις	you loose
3rd Sg.	-ει	λύει	he/she/it looses
1st Pl.	-ομεν	λύομεν	we loose
2nd Pl.	-ετε	λύετε	you (all) loose
3rd Pl.	-ουσι(ν)	λύουσι(ν)	they loose

Primary Middle/Passive Endings

Person	Ending	Example	Translation
1st Sg.	-ομαι	λύομαι	I am being loosed
2nd Sg.	-ῃ (from -εσαι)	λύῃ	you are being loosed
3rd Sg.	-εται	λύεται	he/she/it is being loosed
1st Pl.	-ομεθα	λυόμεθα	we are being loosed
2nd Pl.	-εσθε	λύεσθε	you (all) are being loosed
3rd Pl.	-ονται	λύονται	they are being loosed

Secondary Active Endings (Imperfect, Aorist)

Secondary tenses add an ε-augment before the stem (or lengthen an initial vowel). The imperfect uses the present stem; the aorist uses the aorist stem with σα formative.

Person	Ending	Imperfect Ex.	Translation
1st Sg.	-ον / -α	ἔλυον	I was loosing
2nd Sg.	-ες	ἔλυες	you were loosing
3rd Sg.	-ε(ν)	ἔλυε(ν)	he/she/it was loosing
1st Pl.	-ομεν	ἐλύομεν	we were loosing
2nd Pl.	-ετε	ἐλύετε	you (all) were loosing
3rd Pl.	-ον	ἔλυον	they were loosing

Connecting Vowels

The vowel that links the stem to the ending follows a simple rule: ο before μ or ν; ε elsewhere. Remember the rhyme: "o before mu or nu."

MEMORY AID

ν = Roman numeral V = 5, which is more than 1. Besides the secondary 1st sg. active, ν only appears in plural forms. εις + ες sound like 'is' — think 'you is' in a Southern accent. ται sounds like 'Thai' — a singular nationality. τε / σθε sound like 'ye' — Old English 2nd plural.

Practice: Verbal Endings

1. Parse: λύομεν — person, number, tense, voice

   → 1st person plural, present active indicative — 'we loose'

2. Parse: ἔλυον — why is this ambiguous?

   → Could be 1st sg. OR 3rd pl. imperfect active — context resolves it

3. What is the augment on ἐπίστευον?

   → ε-augment → ἐ-πίστευον (imperfect active of πιστεύω)

4. Identify voice: λύεται

   → Middle/Passive — the -εται ending signals 3rd sg. primary M/P: 'is being loosed'

5. What is the connecting vowel rule?

   → ο before μ or ν; ε elsewhere

There are only two sets of endings, primary and secondary, each with an active and a middle/passive form. Tense formatives and contraction account for most of what looks like further variation, so if you know these endings and the connecting vowels that carry them, you know the fundamentals of the indicative system.

Key:

[1] The perfect active takes its own endings (α, ας, ε(ν), αμεν, ατε, ασι(ν)); the perfect middle/passive adds the primary middle/passive endings directly to the stem, with no connecting vowel.
[2] The pluperfect adds secondary endings to the perfect stem, usually with an augment.
[3] Secondary active 2nd sg. is ε + ς, not the primary's ει + ς.
[4] 3rd pl. ουσι(ν) comes from ο + νσι with compensatory lengthening; its final ν is movable.
[5] 2nd sg. εσαι contracts to η. The uncontracted form is shown for comparison.
[6] 2nd sg. εσο contracts to ου. The uncontracted form is shown for comparison.

Chapter 7

Contract Verbs

When stem vowels meet personal endings: , , and contractions

Some verb stems end in a vowel (α, ε, or ο). When the personal ending's connecting vowel meets this stem vowel, the two contract into a single long vowel or diphthong. The resulting form typically carries a circumflex accent, making it easy to spot.

Contraction Rules

Alpha Contracts	Epsilon Contracts	Omicron Contracts
α + ε → ᾱ	ε + ε → ει	ο + ε → ου
α + ο → ω	ε + ο → ου	ο + ο → ου
α + ω → ω	ε + ω → ω	ο + ω → ω
α + ει → ᾳ	ε + ει → εῖ (or ει)	ο + ει → οῖ
α + ου → ω	ε + ου → οῦ	ο + ου → οῦ

Example: ποιοῦμεν (we make). The stem is ποιε- and the ending is -ομεν. The ε + ο contracts to ου, yielding ποιοῦμεν.

Note: Greek words cannot end in τ, so it drops — e.g., βαπτίζω has root βαπτιδ- (dental drops before σ). Also, σ between two vowels is usually dropped, which explains some middle/passive 2nd sg. forms.

MEMORY AID

Look for the circumflex accent — it's the hallmark of a contraction. The general principle: any combination involving ο or ω → ω (unless it's ο+ε or ο+ο → ου). The secondary M/P 2nd sg. ending -σο becomes -ου because σ drops between vowels and ο+ο contracts.

Practice: Contract Verbs

1. What does ε + ε contract to? Give an example.

   → ει — e.g., φιλέω → φιλεῖ (he/she loves)

2. Identify the stem of ζητοῦμεν and explain the contraction.

   → Stem: ζητε- + -ομεν → ε+ο = ου → ζητοῦμεν (we seek)

3. What accent typically marks a contracted form?

   → A circumflex accent over the contracted syllable

4. Why does ἐλάλου (2nd sg. imperfect M/P of λαλέω) end in -ου?

   → The ending -εσο loses its σ between vowels → -εο → ε+ο contracts to ου

Chapter 8

Aorist & Future Passive Indicative

formative, square of stops revisited, and 2nd aorist passive

The aorist passive indicative expresses a past action done to the subject. Its signature is the θη tense formative inserted between the stem and the secondary active endings. The future passive uses θησ with primary middle/passive endings.

Aorist Passive Indicative

Formula: Augment + Stem + θη + Secondary Active Endings

Person	Greek	Translation
1st Sg.	ἐλύθην	I was loosed
2nd Sg.	ἐλύθης	you were loosed
3rd Sg.	ἐλύθη	he/she/it was loosed
1st Pl.	ἐλύθημεν	we were loosed
2nd Pl.	ἐλύθητε	you (all) were loosed
3rd Pl.	ἐλύθησαν	they were loosed

Future Passive Indicative

Formula: Stem + θησ + Primary Middle/Passive Endings (no augment — it is future!)

Person	Greek	Translation
1st Sg.	λυθήσομαι	I will be loosed
2nd Sg.	λυθήσῃ	you will be loosed
3rd Sg.	λυθήσεται	he/she/it will be loosed
1st Pl.	λυθησόμεθα	we will be loosed
2nd Pl.	λυθήσεσθε	you (all) will be loosed
3rd Pl.	λυθήσονται	they will be loosed

Square of Stops with

When a stem ends in a stop consonant and meets θ, the same square of stops applies — the stop assimilates before the dental θ:

Rule	Result	Example
Labial (π β φ) + θ	→ φθ	πέμπω → ἐπέμφθην
Dental (τ δ θ) + θ	→ σθ	πείθω → ἐπείσθην
Palatal (κ γ χ) + θ	→ χθ	ἄγω → ἤχθην

2nd Aorist Passive: Some verbs use η (not θη) as the tense formative, with no stem change — e.g., ἐγράφην (I was written). 2nd Future Passive: Uses ησ with a changed stem.*

Practice: Aorist & Future Passive

1. Parse: ἐβαπτίσθην

   → 1st sg. aorist passive indicative of βαπτίζω — 'I was baptized'

2. What is the tense formative for the aorist passive?

   → θη (inserted between stem and secondary active endings)

3. Parse: λυθήσεται

   → 3rd sg. future passive indicative of λύω — 'he/she/it will be loosed'

4. Apply the square of stops: what happens to πέμπω in the aorist passive?

   → π (labial) + θ → φθ → ἐπέμφθην ('I was sent')

Chapter 9

Perfect & Pluperfect Tense

Reduplication, formative, and completed-action-with-results semantics

The perfect tense expresses a past completed action whose results continue into the present: I have loosed (λέλυκα). The pluperfect expresses a past completed action whose results continued for a time but are no longer active at the time of speaking.

Formation: Reduplication + Perfect Stem + κα (active) + Primary Endings. Reduplication duplicates the initial consonant + ε (e.g., λ → λε-λυ-). If the word begins with a vowel, the vowel lengthens instead.

Perfect Active Indicative

Person	Greek	Translation
1st Sg.	λέλυκα	I have loosed
2nd Sg.	λέλυκας	you have loosed
3rd Sg.	λέλυκε(ν)	he/she/it has loosed
1st Pl.	λελύκαμεν	we have loosed
2nd Pl.	λελύκατε	you (all) have loosed
3rd Pl.	λελύκασι(ν)	they have loosed

Perfect Middle/Passive Indicative

Formula: Reduplication + Perfect Stem + Primary M/P Endings (no κα formative).

Person	Greek	Translation
1st Sg.	λέλυμαι	I have been loosed
2nd Sg.	λέλυσαι	you have been loosed
3rd Sg.	λέλυται	he/she/it has been loosed
1st Pl.	λελύμεθα	we have been loosed
2nd Pl.	λέλυσθε	you (all) have been loosed
3rd Pl.	λέλυνται	they have been loosed

Pluperfect Active

Person	Greek	Translation
1st Sg.	ἐλελύκειν	I had loosed
2nd Sg.	ἐλελύκεις	you had loosed
3rd Sg.	ἐλελύκει	he/she/it had loosed
1st Pl.	ἐλελύκεμεν	we had loosed
2nd Pl.	ἐλελύκετε	you (all) had loosed
3rd Pl.	ἐλελύκεσαν	they had loosed

MEMORY AID

The perfect is the only past tense that uses primary endings — because its results reach into the present! All other past tenses use secondary endings. The pluperfect adds an augment to the reduplicated perfect (ἐ-λε-λύ-κειν) — it's doubly marked for the past.

Practice: Perfect & Pluperfect

1. Parse: πεπίστευκα

   → 1st sg. perfect active indicative of πιστεύω — 'I have believed'

2. How do you form reduplication on a word starting with a consonant?

   → Duplicate the initial consonant + ε: λύω → λέλυκα, πιστεύω → πεπίστευκα

3. What about a word starting with a vowel?

   → The vowel lengthens instead: ἐλπίζω → ἤλπικα (ε → η)

4. Parse: λέλυται

   → 3rd sg. perfect middle/passive indicative of λύω — 'has been loosed'

5. What is the semantic difference between perfect and aorist?

   → Aorist = simple past action; Perfect = past action with ongoing present results

Participles

Verbal adjectives: adverbial, adjectival, substantival uses; genitive absolute

Participles are verbal adjectives — they have properties of both verbs (tense, voice) and adjectives (case, gender, number). English typically translates them with '-ing' forms. They do not convey absolute time; their tense indicates aspect (kind of action) relative to the main verb.

Formula: Stem + Connecting Vowel/Tense Formative + Participle Morpheme + Case Endings

Three Types of Participles

Type	Function	Article?	Translation Pattern
Adverbial	Modifies the verb	Anarthrous (no article)	While loosing..., After loosing..., Because he loosed...
Attributive	Modifies a noun	Articular (has article)	the loosing man, the man who looses
Substantival	Functions as a noun	Articular, no noun nearby	the one who looses, whoever looses

Special Constructions

Genitive Absolute

A genitive absolute is a participial phrase in the genitive case with its own subject — grammatically independent from the main clause. It is always anarthrous (no article) and usually appears at the beginning of a sentence in narrative. Translate as 'while he…', 'when they…', etc.

Example (John 8:30): Ταῦτα αὐτοῦ λαλοῦντος πολλοὶ ἐπίστευσαν εἰς αὐτόν — While he was saying these things, many believed in him. Here αὐτοῦ λαλοῦντος is the genitive absolute.

Periphrastic Construction

A form of εἰμί + a participle functions as a simple indicative verb. Common with the 3rd plural perfect middle/passive.

Example (Eph. 2:8): τῇ γὰρ χάριτί ἐστε σεσῳσμένοι διὰ πίστεως — For by grace you have been saved through faith. Here ἐστε σεσῳσμένοι (εἰμί + perfect passive participle) = perfect passive indicative.

Practice: Participles

1. Parse: λύοντες — case, number, gender, tense, voice, type

   → Nominative plural masculine, present active participle of λύω — 'loosing' (adverbial if anarthrous)

2. Parse: ὁ πιστεύων — what type of participle?

   → Substantival — article + participle with no noun: 'the one who believes'

3. How do you identify an aorist active participle?

   → Look for the -σα- morpheme: λύσας / λύσασα / λῦσαν

4. Translate the genitive absolute: τοῦ ἡλίου δύνοντος

   → 'While the sun was setting' — genitive subject + present participle, grammatically independent

5. What does the perfect participle λελυκώς convey that the aorist λύσας does not?

   → Completed action with ongoing results ('having loosed and still in that state') vs. simple past action

Chapter 11

The Subjunctive Mood

Possibility, purpose, conditional clauses, and exhortation

The subjunctive mood expresses possibility, purpose, uncertainty, or exhortation — in contrast to the indicative, which asserts fact. It is identified by a lengthened connecting vowel (η/ω instead of ε/ο) and carries no augment even in the aorist.

Three keys to spotting a subjunctive: (1) look for trigger words like ἵνα, ἐάν, ὅταν; (2) lengthened connecting vowels; (3) no augment on aorist forms.

Present Active Subjunctive

Person	Singular	Person	Plural
1st Sg.	λύω	1st Pl.	λύωμεν

Key Subjunctive Constructions

Construction	Function	English Equivalent
ἵνα / ὅπως + subj.	Purpose clause	in order that, so that ἐάν / ὅταν + subj.	Conditional / temporal	if, whenever, when οὐ μή + subj.	Emphatic negation	absolutely will not
1st pl. subj. (hortatory)	Exhortation	let us…
μή + subj. (prohib.)	Prohibition (aorist)	do not…!

The Five Conditional Classes

Greek conditions consist of a protasis (the "if" clause) and an apodosis (the "then" clause). Five patterns occur in the New Testament:

Class	Meaning	Protasis	Apodosis
1st	Assumed true	εἰ + indicative (any)	Apodosis varies
2nd	Contrary to fact	εἰ + past indic.	+ ἄν in apodosis
3rd	Future possible	ἐάν + subjunctive	Apodosis varies
4th	Less probable	εἰ + optative	Opt. + ἄν in apod.
5th	Present general	ἐάν + pres. subj.	Apodosis varies

NT Examples

Purpose (John 3:16): ἵνα πᾶς ὁ πιστεύων εἰς αὐτὸν μὴ ἀπόληται ἀλλ' ἔχῃ ζωὴν αἰώνιον — "so that everyone who believes in him should not perish but have eternal life." Both ἀπόληται and ἔχῃ are aorist subjunctives governed by ἵνα.

Temporal (Matt. 6:5): ὅταν προσεύχῃ — "whenever you pray." ὅταν (= ὅτε + ἄν) triggers the subjunctive.

Emphatic negation (John 11:26): οὐ μὴ ἀποθάνῃ εἰς τὸν αἰῶνα — "will absolutely never die." οὐ μή + subjunctive is the strongest negation in Greek.

Hortatory (1 John 4:7): ἀγαπῶμεν ἀλλήλους — "let us love one another." 1st person plural subjunctive as an exhortation.

> MEMORY AID
> The η in λύῃ looks like a U for 2nd sg. M/P (you are being acted upon), while in 3rd sg. present it looks like an N and sounds like "him" (he is doing it). οὐ generally expects a positive answer; μή expects a negative one. Together (οὐ μή), they form a super-emphatic negation.

Practice: Subjunctive Mood

1. What three clues help identify a subjunctive form?

→ Key trigger words, lengthened connecting vowel, and no augment on aorist

2. Parse: λύσωμεν

→ 1st pl. aorist active subjunctive of λύω — hortatory: 'let us loose'

3. What conditional class uses ἐάν + subjunctive?

→ 3rd class (future possible) and 5th class (present general)

4. Translate ἵνα γινώσκητε

→ 'in order that you might know' — ἵνα + present active subjunctive (purpose clause)

5. What does οὐ μή + subjunctive express?

→ Emphatic negation — the strongest way to say 'absolutely not' in Greek

Chapter 12

Infinitives

Verbal nouns: complementary, purpose, articular, and indirect discourse

The infinitive is a verbal noun — it has tense and voice (like a verb) but no person or number (like a noun). It can function as the subject or object of a sentence, express purpose, or complement another verb. In Greek, infinitives are often preceded by an article in the genitive or accusative case.

Infinitive Forms

Tense/Voice	Form	Basic Meaning
Present Active	λύειν	to loose / to be loosing
Present M/P	λύεσθαι	to be loosed
Aorist Active	λῦσαι	to loose (simple)
Aorist Middle	λύσασθαι	to loose for oneself
Aorist Passive	λυθῆναι	to be loosed
Perfect Active	λελυκέναι	to have loosed
Perfect M/P	λελύσθαι	to have been loosed

Key morphemes: Present active ends in -ειν, M/P in -εσθαι. Aorist active ends in -σαι (1st aorist) or -εῖν (2nd aorist). The aorist passive uses -θῆναι and the perfect active -κέναι.

Five Uses of the Infinitive

Use	Description	Example	Translation
Complementary	Completes another verb	δύναμαι λῦσαι	I am able to loose
Purpose	Expresses aim (often with εἰς or πρός)	ἦλθεν σῶσαι	He came to save
Articular (gen.)	τοῦ + inf. for purpose/result	τοῦ μὴ βλέπειν	so as not to see
Subject / Object	Functions as a noun	τὸ γινώσκειν	the knowing / to know
Indirect disc.	After verbs of saying/thinking	λέγει αὐτὸν εἶναι	He says that he is...

The Articular Infinitive

The articular infinitive places a neuter singular article before the infinitive. The case of the article determines the function: nominative/accusative τό for subject/object, genitive τοῦ for purpose or result, dative τῷ for temporal clauses ("while/when"), and μετὰ τό + infinitive for "after doing X." A frequent pattern is ἐν τῷ + infinitive = "while doing X."

Construction	Function	Example	Translation
τὸ + inf.	Subject/Object	τὸ θέλειν	the willing / to will τοῦ + inf.	Purpose/Result	τοῦ σῶσαι	in order to save τῷ + inf.	Temporal (while)	ἐν τῷ σπείρειν	while sowing μετὰ τὸ + inf.	After	μετὰ τὸ ἐγερθῆναι	after being raised
πρὸ τοῦ + inf.	Before	πρὸ τοῦ γενέσθαι	before it happened
διὰ τὸ + inf.	Because	διὰ τὸ εἶναι	because of being

The infinitive has no time reference on its own — its tense indicates aspect only. Present infinitive = ongoing/continuous action; aorist infinitive = simple/undefined action; perfect infinitive = completed action with ongoing results. Time is determined by the main verb.

Practice: Infinitives

1. What ending marks a present active infinitive?
   → -ειν (e.g., λύειν, πιστεύειν)
2. Parse: λυθῆναι
   → Aorist passive infinitive of λύω — 'to be loosed'
3. What does τοῦ + infinitive express?
   → Purpose or result — 'in order to...'
4. Translate: ἐν τῷ λαλεῖν αὐτόν
   → 'While he was speaking' — temporal articular infinitive with ἐν + dative
5. What is the difference between λύειν and λῦσαι?
   → Aspect, not time: λύειν = ongoing loosing; λῦσαι = simple/one-time loosing
